

Hannah R. Rosenzweig, MPH '05

Term: 2011-Present

Hannah Rosenzweig is a health communications consultant and documentary filmmaker. She is currently working with NYC's Executive Deputy Commissioner of Health and NYC's First Lady Chirlane McCray on a citywide mental health initiative called: "Roadmap to Mental Health for All NYC." Since serving as Hillary Clinton's personal videographer, producing many videos & TV ads for her 2007-2008 campaign for president, Hannah has directed strategic media for leading women politicians including US Senator Kirsten Gillibrand's Off the Sidelines campaign and US Senator Barbara Mikulski. Hannah has produced media for non-profit organizations and government campaigns about issues of food policy, overdose prevention and refugee rights.

Hannah has been a Senior Fellow and Adjunct Professor of Health Communications at Hunter College. As a Senior Fellow at Hunter's Center for Health, Media & Policy (2011-2014) she conducted media trainings and moderated events about the role of media and film in shaping health policy. Before media, Hannah worked as a researcher and community health worker. Her focus was HIV/AIDS. She was a research associate at the Urban Health Study, University of California, San Francisco and the California Department of Health Services. Hannah holds a BA in History from Oberlin College.