

Julie Jenson '13PH

Julie Jenson is a '13 HPM graduate and is currently Director of Product Access on Pfizer's Global Health & Patient Access team, where she leads the company's strategy for international medicine and vaccine donations. Prior to this role, Julie spent 10 years in Pfizer's manufacturing and supply division where she developed an interest in the intersection of technology, supply chain and public health. Julie represents Pfizer on the Board of the Partnership for Quality Medical Donations (PQMD), as Vice Chair of the Executive Committee, and sits on various global health coalitions. Following the Southeast Asian Tsunami in 2004, Julie served as a Pfizer Global Health Fellow in Indonesia. Julie also holds a BA in Supply Chain Management from Michigan State University.

Julie is honored to join the Alumni Board and at this inflection point at the Mailman School. She looks forward to strengthening partnerships with other disciplines as COVID-19 brings Public Health's central role to the forefront of business and society. Julie is passionate about education, mentoring and the importance of health and holistic well-being in all of our lives.